Miss Verna Ingraham is Gold Medalist

Being awarded the gold medal for general proficiency and the silver medal for bandaging, Miss Verna Ingraham, of Arrowwood, achieved that great ambition and distinction which only the most superior of nurses can realize, when graduation ceremonies of the Holy Cross Hospital were held Thurs. evening.

Three years ago Verna decided to follow the nursing vocation, electing to train at the Calgary Hospital. Previous to this she resided in the Gleichen and Arrowwood district graduating from the local high school. She then completed a course at the Technical school in Calgary, following which she remained in Arrowwood for some years before entering the training school for nurses. Her cheery personality and sincerity of manner made her popular among her many friends who offer congratulations, and all unite in wishing Verna the very best of luck in future years.

Among those attending from Arrowwood were Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ingraham, Mr. and Mrs. D. Richards and daughters Margaret, Lorna and Irma, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ingraham, Mr. and Mrs. Beaune and Marion.

Pupils of the Arrowwood Consolidated School were loud in their acclaim for the field day as this year organized and presided by the staff. The pupils of the school were divided into classes according to weight and on this basis keen competition was aroused. FLEMING'S FOLLY

LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

The meeting terminates, but Link Hamilton and his sister Helen ask Fleming questions about his irrigation plan. This angers Buzz, who accuses Fleming of trying to influence his sister and, as he asserts, ruin his "spread". Buzz shoots at Fleming in an uncontrollable fit of anger, but Buster Townsend, Link's former, is shot in the stomach, and Fleming is uninjured. Buzz is arrested and sentenced to three years imprisonment.

Helen and Fleming form a partnership to provide irrigation for their own properties.

Fleming goes home and studies the plans drawn by Torney to learn how they could be adapted to a smaller scheme suitable for his and Helen's land, and is satisfied it could be done. Feeling cold, he lights the fire and there is an explosion that burns the house, burns it and the plans and renders Link unconscious. He is rescued from the blaze by an employee.

Buzz Hamilton arrives back in Rawlston while Fleming and Helen are in the bank getting a loan for the purpose of wages for work on the dam. Roper Kilgo and Jackpot Mill meet him and go to the station with them. By the time his sister and Link come from the bank, Buzz has had several drinks. Roper has distorted the facts concerning the dam proposal to Buzz, making it appear that Link was trying to ruin him. Buzz, inflamed with liquor and anger, tries to throttle Fleming, but is thrown to the floor. Then Helen appears and tells Fleming she has been robbed of the $800 they had obtained from the bank.

On their arrival home they were met by a couple of Link's workmen, who told Fleming that there was a strike at the dam, and that the men were afraid they would not get their wages. Link told them of the robbery and promised them their money as soon as possible. The men reluctantly returned to work.

Fleming finds Roper and Jackpot Mill making trouble among his workmen, and orders them to get out of his place at the point of his gun. Both Roper and Mill flee in terror. Mill telling Fleming to carry his gun the next time they met.

(Now On With The Story)

The wily little Irishman he addressed was pale with pain. But with the buoyancy of his race he grinned wryly. "Feel like one o' them, ye know, murtherer. Murtherer, I'm!" One guess they ain't got busted legs like I have, eh?"

Link examined the man's injuries for the first time. He had an arm broken three inches below the elbow, and legs crushed by dirt and pebbles, and a bad bruise on his side. He was not dangerously injured, however, unless internal, which could not yet be determined.

When he made sure of arrangements going forward to take the pair by wagon to his own ranch, he was the first time Link saw the remaining workers stood around in an attitude of urticardie indecision. "Well, boys?"

One, holder than the rest, stepped forward. "We don't like the way things are goin' around here," he growled. "We want our pay. We're quitte' now."

For an instant Link did not know what to say. Several laborers supported him with similar statements, and the remainder of the group a dozen strong, looked belligerent.

Fleming glanced toward the scene of the accident—if it could possibly be an accident, which he strongly doubted. "I see," he said slowly. "You're all yellow. Scared to work here, just because a couple of men went gort by something that couldn't be foreseen."

"Boys, I told McLenndon to take every precaution for safety. Buster Townsend got the same instructions. Hey, Mac, isn't that so?" He saw the engineer coming toward them after personally seeing that Orin and Jimmie Dooley were started toward the Star Loop.

McLendon nodded. "I think I've done everything a man could," he said briskly, and hurried a withering look at the quitters.

"Well, they're yellow, Mac. They want their dirts. They're going home."

"Now, that ain't it, Fleming. We ain't scared. But—"

"But what, Ferguson? If you have anything to say, say it!"

The self-appointed leader shifted uneasily, hoping some of his fellows would speak up. But none did. "It's pay, mainly. And we been workin' long enough. We're quitte'."

"We want our money."

Fleming regarded him quizzically. "You want your wages to take home now, is that it? You not out to earn all you can for that wife of yours, eh? Satisfied to earn a little while she takes in washing."

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE? Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknow Preparations

THE reason to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the word "Aspirin" was used, remedies were devised against physicians' pain for the stomach, and often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the most effective of all remedies for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company. Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Demand and Get "ASPIRIN"

She's worth four of you, Ferguson, and I say it was unlucky she ever met you. You're lazy, no account; don't deserve an honest, pretty woman like you got. You never gave her a square deal yet, and if Mac hadn't stopped all liquor out here you'd be drunk same as you are at Rawlston more'n half the time!"

He spat disgustedly. "Your type is a quitter anyway. You're no good to anybody, especially your wife and yourself. All right; you don't quit. You're fired!"

The charges he made were true, as every man listening knew full well. Yet he would not have uttered them had his anger been aroused had he not seen a bold stroke. He knew at a glance that Ferguson was the chief trouble-maker here, and perhaps was responsible for this sudden strike. Link advanced on the man. "Get out before I knock you down!"

The fellow retreated to safety. "I want my wages!" he whined. Fleming plunged a hand into his trousers pocket and drew out several bills. "Here you are, Mac."

"Twelve dollars an' forty cents," supplied Ferguson.

"All right. Never mind lookin' it up. Here," and Link tossed over his change. "I'm glad to get rid of you so cheap. Now clear off this property before I knock you off!" he snarled.

But now he had received his money, Ferguson seemed reluctant to leave. He halted a safe distance and turned. "Say, Mr. Fleming—" "Get out! And don't come back!"

Now, boys, what's the trouble? Worried I'm not going to pay up? Or are you a gang of good-for-nothings like Ferguson, so when you have a few dollars coming you want to scot to town and guzzle it down in whiskey?"

Stated this way, they were uncertain. "Well," said a red-nosed man, staring down at his broken and dirt-rimmed finger nails. "I don't mind workin' another day or two for yeh, Link. That is, if I'm gonna get cash when it's over."

"Saw what I gave Ferguson?" "Yeah."

"There'll be more where that came from. I've kept my steers free just to take care of you hoppers, and I'm sellin' 'em tomorrow. That means cash at least before sunset. Ought to satisfy the crowd of you."

"But say," objected a grinning individual who wore the habiliments of a miner, "we need twice as many guys workin' here!"

There was some truth in this. Fleming frowned and fingered his chin, glancing at McLendon. He could not think where it might be possible to get more men with the whole of Boone County hostile to his project. "Boys, were nearly to the end of this job. I'll pay double for overtime, so there's a good chance for you to make some real money!"

"And cash when?" persisted another individual. "Double time's no good until we get it!"

"You'll get it. Cash up to date tomorrow. I don't mean the next day nor next week. Tomorrow! That's definite I reckon!" Now, he demanded, crying the crowd before him, "how about it? Who's quittin' and who's workin'?"

"I'm quitte'." "Me too." Two men stepped forward. "I've had enough o' yore damned quarry, Fleming," one declared, with unexpected spirit. "That mainly I don't expect yuh'll ever pay a cent. Once this dam's golt yuh'll forget every man jack of us!"

No hint of inner troublesomeness as he looked at the remaining crowd of workers who with Buster, McLendon, and the man driving the injured pair to the Star Loop, comprised the staff. "Anybody else?"

For answer three shuffled away and picked up their tools. After some indecision and considerable growling, others followed suit. Nearly 24 men were again on the job.

Link took McLendon aside. "I sure appreciate you doin' your best, Mac. And the fact that Helen and I owe you two months' pay and never heard a word about it since the day you came."

The other stirred uneasily. I know your square shooter, Fleming." He paused. "Somebody around here spreads dissatisfaction among the men. They keep growling and complaining. This work is no harder than any other, but they keep worryin' that you won't find the money to pay them."

Link looked troubled. "How about Buster Townsend?" "Townsend? What do you mean? He tries to make them work."

"Ever see him wearin' leather cuffs with rivets formed like a feudist's?" McLendon blinked. "Yeah," he said slowly. "I think I have. I'm sure of it. Why?"

"Thanks, Mac. I'll have a talk with Buster." Turning away, Link found his ranch foreman squinting at blueprints. No one was within earshot.

"Where's that pair of cuffs you used to wear?" he inquired casually, glancing at the brawny arms with sleeves rolled up.

"Huh? Oh, them! Darned if I know. Yeah," Townsend added quickly. "I guess one of 'em is in the shack up above. I lost the other a couple days ago. Why?"

For answer his employer whipped out his forty-dye. The muzzle pressed hard against the foreman's stomach. "You held up Helen Hamilton yesterday, just outside Rawlston. He charged angrily. "Where's the money? Buster, I never thought you'd doublecross me!"

Amusement flooded the other's leathery countenance and he glanced down at the threatening sign. But there was no trace of fear showing but only bluntly evident.

"You're wrong, Link," he declared. "I pulled no holdup yesterday or any other time. I've worked for yuh faithful as any man can. Yes, and last Fall I got shot for yuh, too."

There was a moment of tense silence. "Mac!" called Fleming over his shoulder. The engineer approached, his eyes wide in wonder at the gun covering Townsend. "Was Buster working here yesterday morning, or was he gone for awhile?"

Then I read at Fruit-A-Lives tried them before him. "Why, sure he was here!" Buster and I were wrangling over some blueprints. In fact, he proved that I'd miscalculated five-eighths of an inch. You see, on these supports for the—"

"Hm. All right." Abruptly he hoisted his hand. He waited for the engineer to leave, a wondering expression on his sober face. Then Fleming extended his hand. "I'm sorry, Buster. Reckon I'm all tensed up about this thing. But how did your cuffs get on the holdup?"

He yanked one off, and I'm plumb sure it belonged to you!"

"Say! Amos Stephen came out here and give me a regular third degree, but I didn't know what the heck it was about!" Comprehension dawned in Buster's honest eyes; that a war grin covered his face. "Link, I wouldn't do a job like that. I missed the cuffs and thought they must be somewhere around or in the bunkhouse on the spread. Now ain't that funny, huh?" And the foreman chuckled vigorously on his side of tobacco.

Altar Society Notes

The St. Columba Altar Society met at the home of Mrs. E. Hanson on Tuesday afternoon, May 19, ten members and three visitors present.

Letters of thanks were written to Mr. F. McInerney for his donation of a calf to raffie last winter, and to Mr. McManahan for his donation of coal.

Fr. Hyatt, the new pastor for the Gleichen, Husar and Arrowwood districts, visited the Altar Society at this meeting and spoke of his plans to build up the work of the Church in this parish.

The ladies decided to have a Mass said for the late Mrs. Mooney.

Plans were made for running the Lunch Booth on June 3rd and the Society agreed to do everything possible to please the public in this respect, and to make special arrangements to serve the visiting baseball team's supper after the games.

Mrs. White of Queenstown will entertain the Altar Society at the next meeting in Queenstown on June 10.

Mrs. Jacques, the president presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Journey assisted Mrs. Hanson in serving a very delightful lunch.
